Scholarship

“It's really great to have such enthusiastic students. They are very smart, fast learners and it's nice to have an exchange of ideas from Australian students which contributes to the NAB culture and office in Japan. In fact, it's great that we are all learning from each other.”

Kohei Tsushima
General Manager NAB Japan

Cindy Huang, Macquarie University and Patrick Gan, Western Sydney University at NAB's Tokyo office.

Scholarship

“My 5-month internship with QBE has unlocked career opportunities that I didn’t even know existed. I’ve been exposed to an exciting industry that I now want to pursue a career in.

For an ex-miner from Bendigo who only got his passport in 2013, and is 5-months into his corporate career, this all feels pretty special.”

Scholarships and Mobility Programs

Thoughts for a successful bid

- Mobility
 - Weighting is important, but focus on all criteria
 - Institutional links and partnerships matter
 - Longer in country is generally better
 - Don't forget the summary description
- Scholarship
 - Universities can nominate up to 10: use it!
 - Consider less 'popular' locations
 - Again, longer in country is generally better
 - Have a carefully considered plan for study and an internship or mentorship
 - Relate the proposal to the broader NCP goals and Australian interests (not only the student's personal goals)

Monitoring and Evaluation

- Internal MEF developed, for
 - Strategic management
 - Accountability
 - Learning and improvement
- Help us understand
 - Participants experiences
 - Impact
 - Personal networks
 - Institutional Partnerships.
- Range of sources include
 - Alumni and Student Data
 - Alumni Surveys
 - Feedback: Business, Posts, high-level stakeholders

“With the fastest growing region on our doorstep, Australian organisations need to quickly develop a workforce capable of taking full advantage of the Asian century. The New Colombo Plan will be vital in developing a pipeline of future leaders with the skills and connections needed to successfully do business in Asia.”

and NCP Business Champion*
